

Professional liability coverage FOR YOUR SMALL BUSINESS

Errors and omissions in one's work are enough to drive someone... mad.

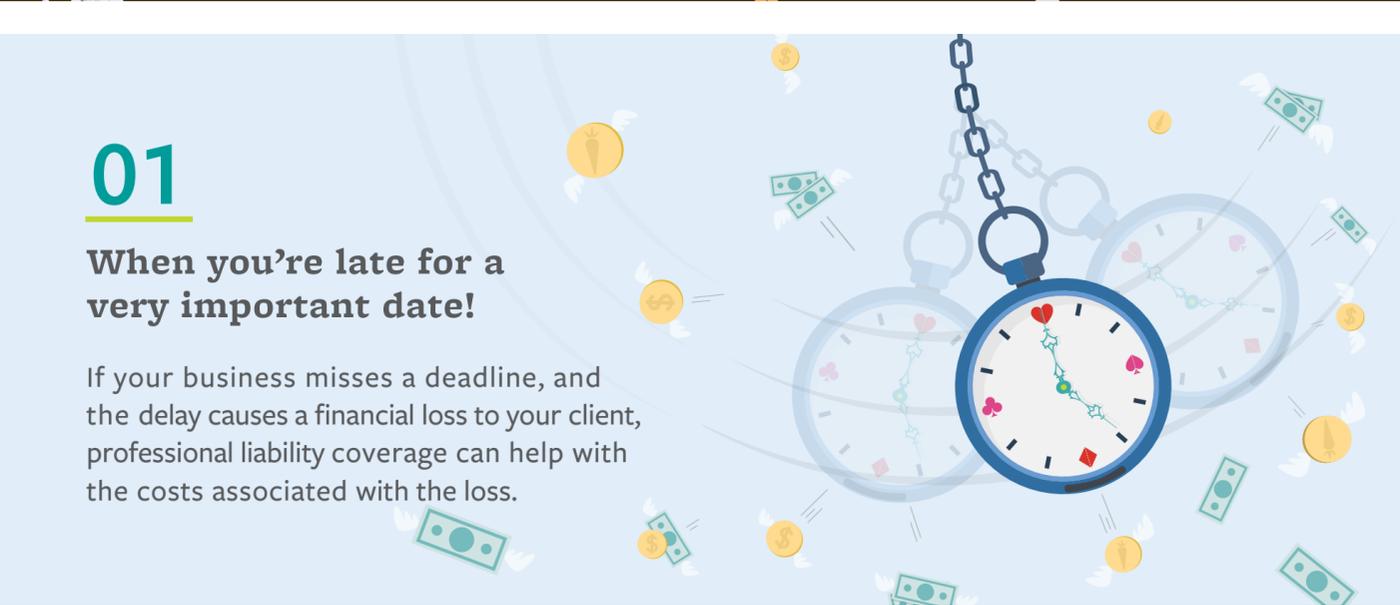

Make sure your small business is covered in the event that an unexpected mistake slips through the cracks. Here are some common scenarios where professional liability coverage can come in handy.

01

When you're late for a very important date!

If your business misses a deadline, and the delay causes a financial loss to your client, professional liability coverage can help with the costs associated with the loss.

02

When your client points their finger at you.

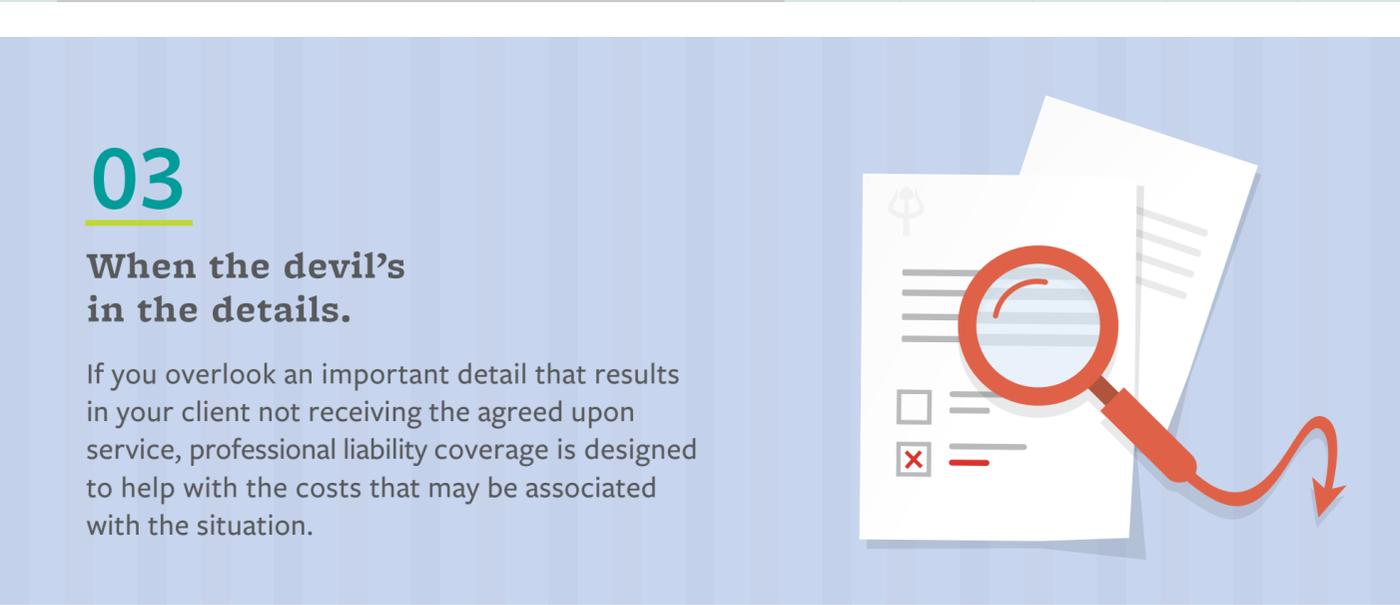

If a client claims your work resulted in damages that led to direct economic losses, you could face a costly lawsuit for those losses.

03

When the devil's in the details.

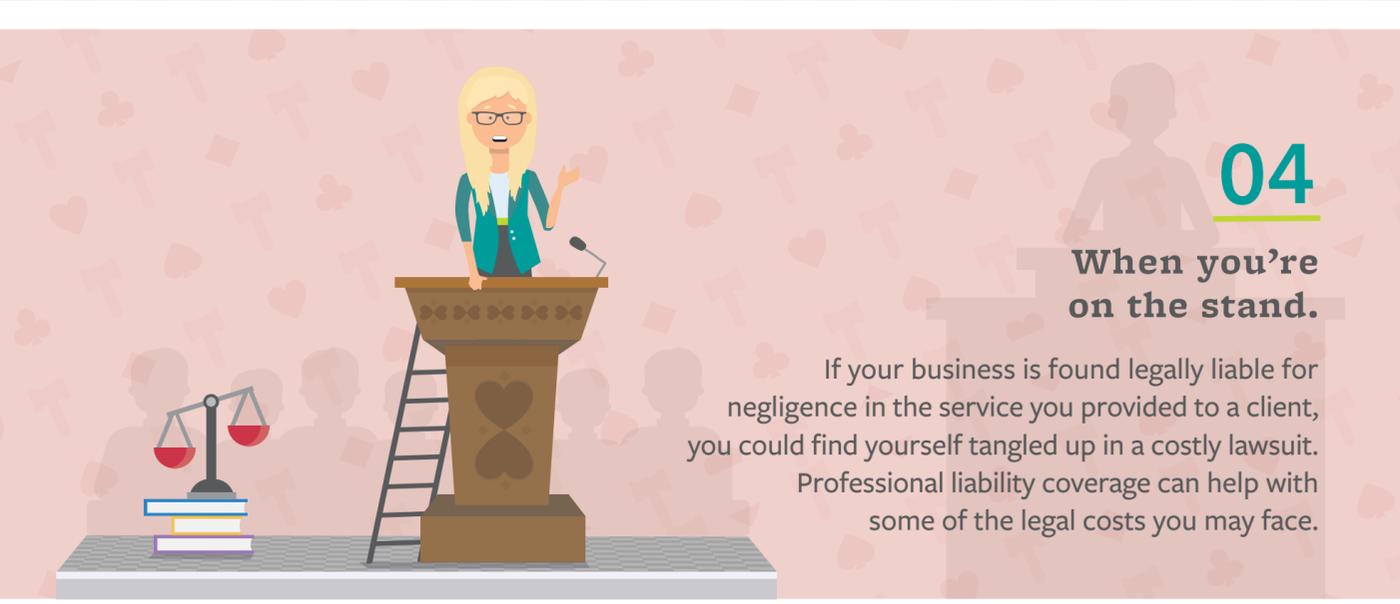

If you overlook an important detail that results in your client not receiving the agreed upon service, professional liability coverage is designed to help with the costs that may be associated with the situation.

04

When you're on the stand.

If your business is found legally liable for negligence in the service you provided to a client, you could find yourself tangled up in a costly lawsuit. Professional liability coverage can help with some of the legal costs you may face.

Don't let mistakes in your work make you tumble down a hole your business can't get out of.

Make sure you have the coverage you need.
